MixBytes is a team of experienced blockchain engineers and developers. The team builds and launch blockchain projects based on Ethereum, EOS and Parity Substrate, using the expertise to create and audit smart contracts and dApps, consult and train in-house teams, develop tools for blockchain developers.
They have a broad experience in infrastructure system engineering and exploitation for the largest Internet projects (Internet search engines, antispam software, web portal development, messengers) with 150 mln user coverage. They developed performance-critical software, various databases, big data clusters and geographically distributed fault-tolerant systems.
